

NCOA Presents Colors

During Raiders Football "Salute to Service" Game.

Staff Sgt. Kiowana E. Williams (left to right), Sergeant 1st Class Michael Rivera, Staff Sgt Israel M. Guerrero and Sergeant 1st Class Jason R. Gochez present the National Colors and the Army Colors during the NFL Raiders team "Salute to Service" event honoring all members of the military. The event occurred on Nov. 18, as part the NFL's Veterans Day observation.

In a nearly sold out stadium, Oakland Raiders fans stand during the singing of the National Anthem by Eddie Money (center and inset) during pregame events. The giant National Colors was unfurled by service members from Travis Air Force Base, Coast Guard Island and local Army Recruiting Stations.

Newly inducted Soldiers from the local area are given the Oath of Allegiance during the pre-game ceremonies by Army Recruiting Officer Maj. Wycoff.

Activities during the pre-game events were; Former military parachutist jump into the Stadium to present the National Colors and ceremonial Raiders Flag; The coin toss by a referee using an Army “Challenge Coin” and former Raiders Coach Jon Gruden mingling with military members and fans on the field.
